

Claim

1. A bookstand made of a thin material that when it is in expanded position supports a book at an angle conducive to viewing, and that folds flat and thin enough to be used as a bookmark.